History of the Australian National Championships competing for the Ede Clendinnen Shield

The Ede Clendinnen Shield Event is Australia's premier badminton national event. The evennt has a maximum of 8 states/territories and has significant history in Australian Badminton. Reginald Ede Clendinnen, with support of Victorian's Harold Wray and Alf Lennart, decided to start an official interstate series in 1929, then following that the Australian Badminton Association was formed in 1935 and a National Championships formally commenced.

Ede Clendinnen donated the shield for the teams competition with three states contesting the inaugural event in 1935; Victoria, Tasmania & South Australia. When the original shield was completely filled with the winners names, the Hon. Roy Ward donated a second shield.

The original format consisted of nine matches (Three Men's Doubles, Women's Doubles & Mixed Doubles), in 1935 the format changed to include Four Men's Singles, Women's Singles & Mixed Doubles and Two Men's Doubles & Women's Doubles – A total of 16 matches. In 1994 the format was changed again to Three Men's Singles & Women's Singles and Two Men's Doubles, Women's Doubles & Mixed Doubles – 12 Matches in total. This is the first year of the event under a new format of 5 matches 1 Women's Singles, 1 Men's Singles, Women's Doubles, Men's Doubles and Mixed Doubles to align with international BWF competition.
